

Office of the President

Dear Colleagues,

I invite you to take part in nominating your faculty colleagues for SUNY's conferral of the title Distinguished Service Professor or Distinguished Teaching Professor.

The SUNY Distinguished Service Professorship and the SUNY Distinguished Teaching Professorship help us to recognize the achievements of outstanding faculty members whose extraordinary talents have contributed significantly to Stony Brook's stellar reputation. You work with these individuals and learn from them every day. They have brought the University renown on a national level, and have turned challenges into opportunities through their innovation and dedication. Their wisdom and learning have helped you view the world in entirely new ways, and their enthusiasm and spirit of service have inspired you to new endeavors.

The winners of last year's professorships include:

Distinguished Service Professor:

Henry Bokuniewicz    School of Marine and Atmospheric Science

Distinguished Teaching Professor:

Joseph Lauher            Chemistry
Steven Skiena            Computer Science

Please help us honor our colleagues, and inspire others toward future success by taking the time to participate in this year's nomination process

Sincerely,

Samuel L. Stanley, Jr., M.D.
President
